DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed 12/22/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Art rejections below are maintained for the reasons of record particularly in view of the problems the new claims have under 112 second paragraph. The attorney is invited to call the examiner as there would appear to be potential allowable subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 12-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are rendered indefinite by the phrase "from up to five administrations in one service..." as it is unclear what the meaning of the phrase is. While it is generally understood that there is to be an reduction in the number of inseminations necessary, the new claims 12 & 19 (and thus their dependents) are confusing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 27-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Thistlewaite et al (5402240) or Wiesman(5983661).

Thistlewaite (see e.g. Col 1) & Wiesman (see e.g. Col 1) teach inseminating animals with a composition which comprises semen, an extender, a prostaglandin and an antibiotic. The references anticipate the claim subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 12-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thistlewaite et al (5402240) or Wiesman(5983661) in view of Bowler et al(400421) and Hayashi et al(3953495).

Thistlewaite (see e.g. Col 1) & Wiesman (see e.g. Col 1) teach inseminating animals with a composition which comprises semen, an extender, a prostaglandin and an antibiotic. As the references clearly indicate that the various proportions and amounts of the ingredients used in the claimed composition and are result effective variables, they would be routinely optimized by one of ordinary skill in the art in practicing the invention disclosed by those references. That also extends to the selection of antibiotic as the references (particularly Weisman) teach a multitude of useful antibiotics and the selection of a suitable antibiotic would have been well within the purview of one of ordinary skill in the art.

Certain embodiments of applicant's invention may not be suggested by Thistlewaite and Weisman however the administration of prostaglandins to a female mammal to improve impregnation is notoriously old and well known in the art as taught by Hayashi and Bowler (Cols 1-2 in both references).

Furthermore, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to practice the invention of the references with other mammals given that the uterine reaction to prostaglandins is well known in mammals.

Accordingly, the claimed invention was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
